EACH RIVER HAS ITS OWN COURSE

-Hullin 18b

What did I do for my summer vacation? I began with white water rafting in Hells Canyon on the Snake River. Several Native American tribes, as well as gold miners, homesteaders, and counter-culture types in the 1960's have inhabited the area, largely because of the mild climate. Apparently, with a lot of hard work, and a strong constitution, it was possible to carve out a living in the area. But, as one of my friends on the trip said, "It's a long walk to shul!"

People say that they feel that they can really meet God in nature. I can attest to that. For the first day and a half, I must have said the Shema 10 times a day...each time we approached a rapid. But then something happened. I still prayed, but calmness came over my soul. I learned that if I just relaxed a little, and let my body sway with the boat and the waves, I was no longer afraid and the ride was a lot of fun. This was especially true when I volunteered (!) to kayak in a 'ducky' – a one-person inflatable kayak – through the rapids. My first instinct was to tense up and row as hard as I could, while praying with as much fervor as I could muster. I was worried that I didn't know how to read the river, and that I would find myself in a dangerous position. I also found myself wondering why the guides would allow any volunteer to use the kayak if it was so dangerous. The first minutes were exhausting. I breathed hard, I rowed hard, and I kept the 'mother boat' in my sight always (Of course that was not easy because my life preserver and helmet were too big and it was difficult to turn around). Like my previous experience, I found myself letting the rapids do some of the work, letting my body relax, and enjoying the ride. It seemed like the more I let go, the more control I actually had! I also began to notice how the river was calm before a rapid, and then calm after a rapid. I thanked God for that pattern because I needed time to think about whatever I had just paddled through.

Davening is easy on the river. For some reason there was always a perfect place for a 'sanctuary.' One day it was high above the river, another day it was right next to it. The only thing missing was a minyan, and a mixture of voices and harmony enhancing the tefillot. Fortunately, one member of our group was a professional Jewish musician – and we sang all sorts of songs late into the night. One night, I went to sleep watching for shooting stars while listening to the group singing. Neither activity was dis-

IT TAKES A KEHILLAH (COMMUNITY)

As I write this it is the beginning of August, and I have been in Portland for three weeks. I have begun to settle in both to my new home and to the various happenings at Beth El. While there is still much for me to learn I have participated in wonderful meetings of the Hebrew School, Ritual, and Early Childhood committees, been briefed in numerous areas by Rabbi Braun and Liz Rose-Cohen, and have received the early support and advice of countless people.

All of this has been a true blessing for a new synagogue professional just arrived in town; and so, I feel a little less stressed as I begin to meet with teachers, order textbooks, finalize a calendar, prepare informational parent mailings, and do all of the other many tasks of readying the Hebrew School to open in September. Two things, which will not come as a surprise to you, have become abundantly clear to me. The first is the excellence of the program developed by Avis Smith and her dedication to nurturing Jewish education during her long tenure at Temple Beth El. And the second is the active involvement of so many parents and other Beth El members in the success of the Hebrew School. And it is this involvement that I want to highlight for a moment.

We all know that we share a profound commitment to the flourishing of a vibrant Judaism and to inculcating in the next generations a desire to continue learning and living the Jewish heritage. As a tradition rooted in community, ours will always require the active participation of the entire community to spread the love and knowledge of Judaism to our children. And so I invite all of you, whether or not you have children in the Hebrew School, to join me and the teachers in the ongoing creation of an environment in which the meaning, beauty, significance, and enjoyment of Jewish life and learning is evident to all of our children. Please feel free to contact me with whatever time, skills, resources or ideas you may have to share. My door, phone and email are always open to you and I would be grateful for any kind of support you can give to me and to our children. I know that we all will benefit from whatever you can contribute to our Jewish future. Together we can make it an extraordinary year of Jewish living and learning.

Elijah Job Tabachnick Bar Mitzvah

Aileen and Bob Tabachnick invite the TBE Congregation to join in the celebration of their son Elijah Job Tabachnick's Bar Mitzvah on September 5 & 6. Elijah is an eighth grade honor student at Lincoln Middle School. He enjoys being on the football, track, and baseball teams. He also plays flute in the band and enjoys tap dancing. He is the last of a long line of Tabachnick boys who have celebrated their B'nai Mitzvah at TBE. His oldest brother, Jake, had his Bar Mitzvah in 1987, and Abe and Henry had their B'nai Mitzvah in 2004.

Elijah is an amusing quick-witted kid who can always set us straight on anything scientific or political (life in general). Elijah would like to thank all his teachers, especially Avis Smith and Rabbi Braun, for helping him to prepare for his big day!

FROM THE OFFICE: HIGH HOLIDAY VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

by Liz Rose-Cohen

The month of Elul is the busiest month of the year in the Temple Beth El office. While others are preparing spiritually for the New Year, we are scurrying around to get everything in order for the High Holidays. If you are interested in helping with the preparations or assisting at High Holiday services, please contact me at execdir@templebethel-maine.org or 774-2649. Some of the things we count on members to help with are:

- Office help: answering phones, preparing mailings, etc.
- High Holiday Ushering
- Sponsorship of flowers, kiddushes, special services, and other aspects of the Holidays

SELICHOT PROGRAM AND HAVDALLAH SERVICE

Please join us for a special Selichot program on Saturday, September 20, as we spiritually prepare ourselves for the new year. We will begin with a Havdallah service at 8:00 PM.

Kitchen and Maintenance Changes

by Liz Rose-Cohen

I am pleased to announce that we have recently restructured our maintenance services at Temple Beth El. As of July 1, Bob Bradbury's position changed to be a weekday custodial position. Bob will be responsible for keeping the building (including the school wing) clean all week long. He tells me he has enjoyed the time away from the Temple having worked weekends here for more than 25 years! Bob's work in the school wing will replace the services provided by our cleaning company whose services we suspended as of June 30.

Joining us in August was our new Kitchen Manager, Chris Ramos. Chris comes to us having worked as Kitchen Manager and Chef at a number of area restaurants. He currently works as a Chef at OceanView of Falmouth. Chris's regular hours will be on Fridays and Saturdays during which time he will set up for services, prepare and serve kiddushes, and keep the kitchen in good order. Chris will also be available by appointment to meet with new kitchen users and B'nai Mitzvah families as needed. We are glad to have Chris on board.

All in all, the new maintenance structure will save a significant amount of money for the Temple, without sacrificing any needed services. We will be working out the kinks in the coming weeks; as always, please let me know if you have any feedback.

RITUAL COMMITTEE UPDATE:

Goldberg(s) to Help Lead High Holiday Services

The Ritual Committee is pleased to announce that our Interim Religious Professional, Dov Goldberg, will join Rabbi Braun on the bima as Hazzan for Temple Beth El's High Holiday Services. Dov is an experienced High Holiday Shaliach Tzibbur (prayer leader), having led High Holiday services at Conservative synagogues in Greensboro, N.C.; Boardman, Oh.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Batavia, N.Y.; and Rutland, Vt.

We are happy to tell you that Rabbi Solomon Goldberg, of Greensboro, N.C., will lead our Kids Kehillah Services during the High Holidays. Rabbi Goldberg served as the beloved Rabbi of the Rutland Jewish Center in Rutland, Vt. for over 40 years. We are privileged to have him as the leader of

by Fae Silverman

On June 21, 2008, Temple Beth El made local Queer history by being the first synagogue to march in Portland's Gay Pride Parade, one of only a few religious groups to participate. Complicated by the fact that the march happened on a Saturday afternoon, members of the synagogue's GLBTIQQA Committee gathered the week before the festival to design tee shirts and patches with the flame logo and the words, "Temple Beth El Supports Pride," to wear instead of carrying a banner.

It was especially significant for me to participate in the parade, representing my synagogue as a child of a mixed-orientation marriage and as an ally to many gay and lesbian Jewish and non-Jewish friends. Marching in the parade was a signal to the community that our conservative shul is an open and welcoming place for gay, lesbian, bi-sexual, transgender, intersex, queer, questioning folks, and allies to come together as a Jewish community and connect with our tradition.

Here's to next year through the streets of Portland!

If you would like more information or are interested in getting involved with the GLBTIQQA Committee, please contact Fae Silverman or Merrill Abramson.

Tikkun Olam Fair November 2nd!

Based on positive feedback and energy from last year, the Tikkun Olam Committee will again be sponsoring a Tikkun Olam Fair, which will be held from 11:00 AM to 1:00 PM on November 2. The Fair will be a fun way to learn about various opportunities for Tikkun Olam in our community. We will be inviting many charitable organizations in the Portland community to let us know about their work and how people could participate in helping them. Some of the organizations we expect to attend are the Preble Street Resource Center, Project FEED, the Cancer Community Center, and Habitat for Humanity, among others. We will also be doing a hands-on Tikkun Olam project, so come celebrate Tikkun Olam, learn about opportunities in which you can help others, and help us complete a project. A light lunch will be served! If you have winter coats or other outerwear in good condition, please bring them as we launch our winter clothing drive. Also, please bring personal care items (such as toothpaste, soap, toothbrushes, combs, brushes, etc.) to the Tikkun Olam Fair with you, as we will be using these for one of our projects at the fair. Please note: if you are involved in a non-profit group which needs volunteers and would like your group to participate, please contact Barbara Peisner at 797-6651.

Congressional Candidates Forum

September 21 at 9:30 AM at TBE

A Congressional Candidates Forum will be held at Temple Beth El on Sunday morning, September 21 from 9:30-11:30 AM. The candidates running for the U.S. Senate and the First Congressional District have been invited and those attending will have an opportunity to hear the candidates speak at the Forum and will also have a chance to address questions to the candidates. The Candidates Forum is being sponsored by the Adult Jewish Learning Committee.

We are again fortunate to have as moderator for the Forum Temple Beth El's own Irwin Gratz of the Maine Public Broadcasting Network, who has moderated similar Candidate's Forums in the past at Beth El. The Forums have been stimulating and well attended with a broad range of thoughtful questions coming from the audience.

Those in the congregation as well as the general public are encouraged to attend this Forum on September 21, meet the candidates, and ask them questions.

GUESS WHO'S HAVING A BAT MITZVAH?

by Becky DeLois

It all began forty-four years ago toward the end of my Hebrew lesson at my Brunswick home with a Bowdoin tutor, when my father asked me if I would like to go to Camp Loun, a co-ed Jewish camp in Maine, instead of having a Bat Mitzvah. Why, you may ask, would a parent give his twelve and eleven month year old daughter a choice? Was he out of his mind? No, my blessed father, Harry Abelon, was not out of his mind, not ever. Rather, he was a wise and patient man trying his best to make sense out of a nervous, fretful, and anxious learner. From a cultural and religious perspective the time in which I grew up did not lend itself to encouraging girls to be called to the Torah. Hence, given an option in 1964 was not so outrageous. What girl at the cusp of teendom would refuse an opportunity to flirt with the nurse's son and learn to upright a tipped canoe?! I loved every aspect of camp and certainly have no regrets.

Moving forward to November 13, 1999, the scene is set where my husband, Joe, and I are sitting with our two oldest sons, Nate and Tony, among family and friends watching and listening to our third son, Jake, chanting from the Torah on Temple Beth El's bimah...chanting flawlessly. We all sat there in awe knowing that early on, Jake had the desire deep in his heart to be Jewish. Because he was from an interfaith family, he, too, had a choice, and all those who know Jake understand what he chose.

Jake's experience had such a positive impact on what I saw as beautiful, Jewish, and spiritual, that after eight years of gentle coaxing and encouragement from Joe, Jake, and particularly my tutor, Avis Smith, I finally chose this arduous path of study. When people constantly ask my age and why on earth I would subject myself to the rigors of a Bat Mitzvah training, I respond by saying, "I find joy in it." I gain more confidence with each passing day on one level, but on a deeper level, I simply have unearthed an interconnectedness with living a Jewish life and applying all that it means to the myriad of decisions and choices I make in my everyday life. This experience has grounded me. I sense the awesomeness of the Torah and all it has to offer. I feel I can't stop loving my religion on the one hand, and forever questioning it on the other. And...I know this journey is merely a beginning. What a truly joyous place to be in my life!

appointing. I tried to stay awake for as long as possible, but the activities of the day, the sounds of the river and the singing put me right to a peaceful sleep.

The Talmud says, 'Each river has its own course.' I've been on two of these kinds of trips and have been on three rivers. Each one is different, and each experience has taught me something. On this trip I learned to greet the rapids with excitement and without tension. I tried to use the calm time before the rush to notice my surroundings rather than worry about what was coming. I learned to enjoy the rapids, and to laugh and rejoice in the calm that followed, while looking forward to the next adventure. Go with the flow, don't worry about things over which you have little control, trust others, embrace difficulties, and laugh a lot. These are the lessons of my summer vacation.

In a little more than a week, we will start the month of Elul, a month of preparation for the holidays. I hope that I remember the lessons of my summer vacation and practice them throughout the year.

B'Shalom,
Rabbi Braun

KIDS KEHILLAH

Kids Kehillah Shabbat morning services for children in grades K-6 will be held on October 18 and 25 in the school wing. Debbie Kanter leads an age appropriate one-hour service starting at 9:30 AM. Bob Tabachnick reads from the Torah, and parents and siblings are always welcome.

Kids Kehillah provides an opportunity for children to practice the songs/prayers they are learning in Hebrew school and to become familiar with new ones. It's also a great time for families to meet each other.

MEMORIAL PARK THANK YOU

On behalf of the Beth El Memorial Park Committee, thank you to the 12 families who have donated to the Memorial Park beautification fund to date. The funds raised are just over five thousand dollars, and the committee is hard at work to ensure that your generous contributions will continue to enhance the beauty and serenity of the Park. If you have considered making a contribution, we would appreciate any ongoing support as we plan for activities to be completed this fall, and look forward to more enhancements in the spring.

Again, thank you,

Rachelle Mack, Chairperson

Kol Yeladim – Voice of the Children

Kol Yeladim is a fun and educational introduction to the joys of Judaism for children ages 0-5 and their families. Our facilitator, Amy Brier, leads the children in celebrating Shabbat and holidays in fun and interactive ways, including singing songs and prayers, listening to Shabbat and holiday stories, playing games, and making crafts. Programs this year will often be followed by a family meal.

Our 2008-2009 Kol Yeladim kick-off event will be held on Friday, September 19 at 5:00 PM at the home of Kim and Andy Shur. Come join other Kol Yeladim families for a Shabbat program and potluck dinner. Please RSVP to Kim at 232-0356 or email kimberelyshur@yahoo.com.

Kol Yeladim programs will be held on both days of Rosh Hashanah and on Yom Kippur from 10:30-11:15 AM in one of the TBE classrooms. Babysitting will be available so that parents may attend services in the sanctuary before and after the Kol Yeladim programs. Please contact the Temple office for more information about or to register for the babysitting services.

Mark your calendars for a special Shabbat program to celebrate Sukkot on Friday, October 17 at 5:00 PM. We will enjoy a special program and meal in the Temple Beth El Sukkah. Please contact the Temple office for additional information.

Adult Jewish Learning Committee presents: A Guide to Living

Dr. Sanford Freedman, Associate Professor of Literature at Bates College, will lead us through the soon-to-be-published book, Four Jewish Philosophers: A Guide to Living, by Harvard philosopher Hilary Putnam (with whom Dr. Freedman studied). We will focus especially on the lives and ideas of Martin Buber, Franz Rosenzweig, Emmanuel Levinas, and Ludwig Wittgenstein. Classes are Sunday afternoons, at 2:00 PM, September 14, 21, and 28, with one or two more classes in October.
